Mass Meetings This Afternoon Mark Formal Opening For Students

EVERY STUDENT A PLEDGE

Opportunity For All to Give—Made Easy Under Five Year Plan—Big Thermometers Will Show Progress of Student Pledges—Largest Group Ever Organized to Work.

Mass meetings this afternoon in each of the five departments of the University formally open the Student Campaign on behalf of the Building and Endowment Fund. During the four days of January 28th to 31st, every student enrolled in the University will be personally interviewed by the 450 student workers.

The object of student workers will be to get a pledge from every student. The amount each student pledges must necessarily depend on his own individual resources, but the committee feels that every one can afford to give something under the very liberal five year payment plan. There are several ways of payment, including cash. But the method considered most advisable for students of uncertain means is the five year plan beginning June 1st, 1924. This plan requires the payment of one-fifth of the total amount pledged each year beginning June 1st. If a student pledge $100.00, under the five-year plan, he will pay $20.00 per year for five years.

Henry James, chairman, said last night: "We want no student to pledge more than he feels he can pay. But what we do want is every student to give something. No matter how small the amount, it will help, and no one can truthfully say that he can't afford something on a five-year plan."

This committee of 450 is the largest group to students ever brought together for the accomplishment of a single purpose at George Washington. The task was a difficult one, but under the direction of Henry James and his executive committee, the greatest student organization in the history of the college has been effected.

They feel confident that the goal of $250,000.00 will be reached with little difficulty. The first twelve pledges signed were for a hundred dollars each, and if that average is maintained, the total will be over five hundred thousand.

Big thermometers on the buildings will graphically portray the results of each day's work. The Arts and Sciences thermometer will be located on Building 4, on G Street. There will likewise be one on the Law School and Medical School Buildings. It is planned to have a demonstration each day as the "mercury" is pushed up another fifty thousand higher. These demonstrations will take place at noon probably, although no definite time has been set.

Awards have been offered for the individual doing the best work, and for the organization having the largest amount pledged per member. There will also be awarded to the team with the highest total, some sort of medals to be worn on watch chains. The individual award is to be presented by Sphinx in the form of a cup, while the organization award is to be given by Pyramid, also a cup.

A twenty page booklet, printed in two colors, on antique paper, containing a comprehensive statement about the history, achievements, and plans for George Washington, will be distributed to the students during the campaign.

Those students comprising the executive committee are: Henry James, chairman; Leslie A. French, G. Wilfred Pryor, Sarah French Smith, Edward Scheuffer.

The departmental committees are built up separately for each school. The following are the chairman and team captains for each department:

Columbian College: Wickliffe Woodard, chairman; Marian Barker, vice chairman; Francis Clements, vice chairman; L. C. Dickenson, H. Clay Powell, Joseph Milenky, Maxwell Mizell, William Olson, Ben Balter, Edward Nichols, Helen Hanford, De Prew Duffy, Nellie Long, Sherman Johnson, Harold Young, Douglas Beattie, Leonard McCarthy, John Wilkinson, James Sutin, Eugene Sweeney, J. T. White, Hillary Tolson, Hubert Bisselle, Catherine Wright, Dorothy Bartly, Betty Bradford, Johnny Johnson, Marguerite Daly, Katherine Bryant, Anne Hoff, Beatrice Woodford, Daisy Robson, Virginia Pryor, Dorothy Croissant, Alice Haynes, Alice Rank, Clyde E. Munay, J. B. Tennyson, and Robert Larson.

Teachers College: Mary E. Bixler, chairman; Ruth Bock, Lu Verne Crabtree, Gretchen Campbell, Mildred Von Elff, Mary Cramer, Isabelle Brown, Betty Booth, Catherine Lantel.

Engineering College: W. C. Allard, Jr., chairman; Leland Alden, Ralph Brauner, Meade Hammond, Jack

NATIONAL CHAIRMAN URGES STUDENTS ON

"Make a Snappy Pass," Says E. J. Henning, "and We'll Carry the Ball Over the Line"

The student mass meeting at 5.10 today inaugurating the students' part in the national campaign for one million dollars, really constitute the referee's whistle, which will start the biggest game George Washington University ever played. That's the way E. J. Henning, Assistant Secretary of Labor, who is national chairman for the endowment fund, looks upon the matter. This is the message he sends to the student body:

"You are playing center in the line. We want you on your toes when the whistle blows today. Make it a snappy pass, give us lots of interference, and the alumni in the back line will carry the old ball down the field until it rests behind the goal line on February 28.

"The alumni, ten thousand strong, are watching you. Their spirit will depend upon yours. If we all play together—alumni and students—George Washington University is going to have a name revered for college spirit beyond all other universities. A great new era has opened up. We have a great president; we're putting up new buildings; we can't help but win if every man and woman fights to the last ditch. Don't spare yourself. Success now will be our sweetest memory in after years.

"Let's fight for the glory of Alma Mater."

HODGKINS SENT FOR G.W.U.

Dean Howard L. Hodgkins represented George Washington University at the meeting of the Association of American Colleges, held in New York City last week. Two hundred delegates were present.

RIFLE TEAM BRINGS HOME CHAMPIONSHIP

The Northeastern Intercollegiate Championship Won By G. W. U. Men

GEORGETOWN IS EIGHTH

Nearest Competitor is Columbia—Captain Walter Stokes Takes Individual Honors of Match

The Varsity Rifle Team easily won the Northeastern Intercollegiate Gallery Championship, the first of its kind and the biggest shoulder-to-shoulder match ever held between colleges and universities. Their team total was 1,867 out of 2,000, 44 points over Columbia, which was second. Walter R. Stokes was the high individual with score of 385-400, outranking Holmes, Yale captain, whose score also was 385.

The victory was a notable one, not only because it was the first match of this kind ever attempted, but also because of the standing of the colleges entered. These teams, other than G. W., fired and stood, with their scores, as follows: Columbia, 1,823; Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1,809; Yale, 1,805; City College, N. Y., 1,785; Johns Hopkins, 1,754; Norwich U., 1,733; Georgetown, 1,724; Boston U., 1,666; Princeton, 1,603; and New York U., 1,468. Lehigh withdrew, refusing to compete against telescopic sights, which were used only by Yale; Pennsylvania also withdrew on account of the ineligibility of certain men of their team.

The men left Saturday morning, a week ago, under the leadership of Walter Stokes, Captain, and spent the afternoon resting up at the Vanderbilt Hotel, which they made their headquarters.

Under the rules governing the match each man fired ten shots in the four positions—prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing. The scores were as follows:

Prone: Stokes, 100; Barry, 99; Everett, 99; Anadale, 100; Trimble, 100; Total, 499.

Sitting: Stokes, 100; Barry, 98; Everett, 97; Anadale, 98; Trimble, 98; Total, 491.

Kneeling: Stokes, 93; Barry, 95; Everett, 95; Anadale, 91; Trimble, 97; Total, 471.

Standing: Stokes, 92; Barry, 81; Everett, 85; Anadale, 74; Trimble, 75; Total, 407.

Totals: Stokes, 385; Barry, 373; Everett, 376; Anadale, 363; Trimble, 370; Total, 1,867.

Georgetown, George Washington's ancient rival, pulled up in eighth place, 143 points behind the Varsity. This is the first time, since the victory in 1922, that the team has shot against Georgetown in a shoulder-to-shoulder gallery match. Somehow or other Georgetown's schedule has been filled the last two years when G. W. sent them a challenge.

Cup Presented at Chapel.

The silver cup, eighteen inches high, engraved with the names of the competitors, which Manager Espey brought home with him, was formally presented to the University at Chapel today. This trophy has become the permanent possession of the University.

President Lewis was very enthusiastic about the team's victory. He had Manager Espey take the cup to the Racquet Club last Monday and exhibit it to the guests at a luncheon of the team captains of the National Endowment Campaign.

Stokes Association Champion.

Walter Stokes, Captain of the Varsity Rifle Team, once more has added to his laurels by capturing first place in the National Rifle Association's Individual Sitting Position Match, at 50 feet, and second place in the Association's Individual Standing Match, at 50 feet. Each of the matches called for the firing of forty shots in the respective positions at the official 50-foot target.

EDITORIAL

GEORGE Washington University should have the Harding Chair of Diplomacy and functions of government, because of its logical situation in the Nation's Capital and because it is already serving the Government employee, the cause which was so close to the heart of the late President.

WASHINGTON, the Capital of the Nation, the city where the bulk of the Government work is done, is by far the best place for the public servants of the present and the future to be trained. George Washington University is already in the field training and educating thousands of Government workers. The problems and difficulties of such a work have already been worked out here. Why give Government training outside of Washington, only later have to force acclimation of the worker to the place of his work, when a University is already fulfilling the requirements of the problem on the spot.

UNIVERSITY training of the Government employee was a cause of concern to the late President Harding, an honorary alumnus of George Washington University. What could be more fitting than that his memory should be preserved in the University that is already training men and women for the Government work?

LEWIS TO RAISE MANY MILLIONS FOR G. W.

"He Who Helps Now, Helps Doubly," States President Lewis on Coming Campaign

President Lewis, in a statement to the Hatchet outlines his intentions as to the raising of sufficient money to place George Washington in the rank where it should be. He emphasizes the importance of a hearty response to this first call, in order that the calls to follow may have a meritorious precedent to follow. "In the future all of us will gain tremendous satisfaction from the thought that at this crucial moment we aided in placing the University where it belongs," he said. His complete statement follows:

"On February first George Washington University enters upon a campaign which means much to the future development of this great institution. We are determined that we shall have the equipment for work and for recreation which will provide the best opportunities for all of our students, and the best facilities for those who teach.

"Our first campaign is for a million dollars. When we have secured this amount from students, alumni, and friends who know us best, we shall go throughout the United States carrying on a long-time campaign to secure the added millions which we must have.

"The earnest cooperation of everyone at this time not only means the raising of the first million, but makes further development much more than a dream. 'He who helps now, helps doubly.' In future years all of us will gain tremendous satisfaction from the thought that at this crucial moment we aided in placing the University where it belongs—in the front rank."

Work Offered to Cover Diplomatic and Consular Service—Columbia University Petitions for Memorial

Assignment of the proposed Harding Chair of Diplomacy and functions of government, a part of the plan of the Harding Memorial Association, to Columbia University, New York City, is asked in a petition from the editorial board of the Spectator, the student daily.

The advantages of establishing of such a chair at Columbia University are made in the petition sent to former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, president of the association. The letter, in part, follows:

"It is reported that the university most under consideration is George Washington University, in the District of Columbia, and we notice also that Ohio State University, in the President's native States, has requested that it be chosen. The purpose of this communication is to suggest to you the service to the Nation that Columbia University could perform if it were selected.

"Close to the heart of the late President was, we know, the desire to set up a training school for men and women about to enter Government work, so as to save the National Treasury the drain caused by the present high turnover in personnel. This need exists not only in the diplomatic and consular services, but in the various domestic departments, we understand.

"We submit that Columbia University, not only because of its equipment and faculty, but because of its situation in the city of New York, is best suited to prepare the public servants of the future."

The course, which is to be known as the Harding Diplomacy and Functions of Government, will probably include courses on the History of American treaties, position of the American Government in relation to European and Asiatic countries, the practice of diplomacy and the international law.

Nothing about the Harding Memorial Chair for Diplomacy and Functions of Government could be learned from University officials.

HONOR ORGANIZATIONS OFFER PLEDGE PRIZES

Sphinx and Pyramid Societies to Give Cups For Best Endowment Work.

To create a greater incentive among the students and organizations in the University to work for the success of the present Endowment Campaign, George Washington's two most exclusive honor societies, the Sphinx and Pyramid, have offered a silver loving cup to the individual and organization turning in the greatest amount of pledges, the award to be made in compliance with the rules of the committee in charge of the campaign.

Although composed of students who are now or have been active leaders in student affairs, it is the first time in their history that either organization has ever offered a reward of this character, and as was stated, only in unusual and meritorious cases where the benefit is to the entire University is such considered.

The Sphinx, girls' honor society, offering the individual award, was established in 1912, and is limited to girls in their junior or senior years who have been active in the college life, and whose scholarship average is 20 points above passing. Membership is limited to seven active members. At the present time there are four, headed by Maxine Rolle, with Anne Hof as secretary and treasurer. Each month these girls give the Engineering Society a supper before their meeting, and together with several other societies they give a luncheon to the incoming freshman girls.

I BELIEVE—

I believe in George Washington University as a college for the education of the youth of America. I believe in the principles on which it was founded, the principles which it has lived into its existence, and the principles which it has set before it for its guidance. I believe in the spirit in which it welcomes a student to its doors, the attitude which it has for all students, and in the thoroughness of the equipment they provide me with for my life's work. I believe in the devoted service of all those connected with the institution, and their worthiness in the things they have been chosen for. Most of all I believe in a future of George Washington University that will ever mark the Nation's best citizens; as an institution that will instill in those who leave its doors the eternal ideals of a Great Democracy.

With the opening of the campaign for a building and endowment fund for the George Washington University there comes to the students of this great institution of learning an opportunity that the past generations of people have only dreamed of. It may well be considered the greatest hour in its history.

For the past century it has fought an uphill fight against the heaviest of handicaps, but the great demand placed upon the University by increased attendance during the past few years has been too great a strain for it to meet without aid.

We now face the Nation in urgent need of funds to increase the facilities and continue the great work of training the youth of to-day. The University has turned to the students for help. They seek first our aid, that they may turn to the Nation with the demonstrated proof of our sincerity and confidence in George Washington University.

Let us look to the future. What will the success of the Endowment Drive mean to us?

It will mean new buildings, new courses, athletic facilities, better equipment, centralization of the college, a campus—and all the things that are rightfully a part of the modern university of to-day. It will mean an increase in the value and prestige of the diploma we are to receive, and will cause a great respect to be commanded for the graduate of George Washington University.

Not only will it help us in a material way, but in later years there will be an infinite amount of satisfaction to be gained from the knowledge that we were able to help put our Alma Mater in the first ranks.

Now is the time to do this thing. The Nation has its eyes on us, and we can not fail, because it means too much to us not to have the ideals of our new president become a reality.

We must give, and give as much as each of us can afford. Dollars in the Endowment Fund to-day will mean glad smiles in our hearts to-morrow.

ALUMNI, TAKE NOTE

George Washington University is your University. This publication is your publication. This institution, now more than one hundred years old, is a going, growing concern. Your interest, thought, cooperation, inspiration, and your ideas are not only welcomed but earnestly solicited.

Through the medium of the University Hatchet you may be kept in touch with the University, with the city, with those who have graduated or attended. From time to time the Hatchet will be sent to you.

The Hatchet wants your suggestions. It wants to know what you are doing, what you are thinking, and what other G. W. U. men and women are doing or have been doing.

Elsewhere in this paper you will find out how to obtain the Hatchet. But that isn't the point. This University needs the backing of its thousands of alumni. It needs the cooperation of its former students and graduates. The Hatchet is edited by the students. And there are more than five thousand in this institution. It wants to be the medium between the University and the alumnus.

George Washington University is going to be the greatest institution in the country. That is the goal. You will be happy and proud to have graduated from old G. W. U. And in hundreds of little ways, you, too, though you are many miles from Washington, can help to boost the G. W. spirit among alumni, former students, and friends. This the Hatchet is going to do. Will you do your share?

PROUD OF FIGHT

Coming within four points of beating the old rival, Georgetown, is the best record that a Hatchetite team has made for some time, and the basketball men are to be congratulated on this fine showing. The students are proud of the fight that was made against the formidable rivals by the G. W. boys.

However, this congratulating for a near victory has something of emptiness about it. What the team and student body want is a victory. With the fine showing of teamwork, generalship, and fight against the Hilltoppers, there is every indication that the basketball team have found itself after a discouraging start and will now come through with its share of victories. And then things will come our way, for "nothing succeeds like success."

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Intramural sport activities, which is being fostered by the G. W. Club and has been repeatedly advocated in these columns, has been given another boost by the announcement from the Director of Student Activities' office that an interdepartmental baseball league is to be formed.

It is hoped to have a team in each of the four colleges—Columbian, Engineering, Law, and Medicine—and to play games every Saturday afternoon during the spring.

This will give at least a hundred students opportunity to engage in the national pastime, a much desired result for the University.

With the inter-class track and field meet to be held in April under the auspices of the G. W. Club, the proposed interdepartmental baseball league, and the individual tennis tournaments for both men and women, intramural sports bid to come into its proper sphere in student activities at George Washington.

DEATH OF DR. FOLLETT MOURNED BY FACULTY

The following resolution was passed by the Medical School faculty on hearing of the death of Dr. Earl Christie Follett, a member of the faculty of that school:

"Whereas, Dr. Earl Christie Follett, a member of the faculty of George Washington University Medical School since September 1, 1921, died suddenly December 15, 1923, in the city of Washington, D. C., in his thirtieth year;

"Be it Resolved, That the death of Dr. Follett removes from our midst one of our most useful and beloved members. He came to us from Bowdoin Medical College, Maine, where he had studied and taught in medicine. His record in this institution was one of intense devotion to the interests of the college and his students. His brilliancy of mind, his striking powers of imparting a thorough knowledge of his subject to his students, his enthusiasm for his profession, his generous nature, and his love for his fellow man, makes his loss irreparable. His excellence of attainments and character will ever remain an example to those who studied under him, and a beloved and respected memory to his faculty associates.

"Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be sent to his family and a copy placed in the archives of this college."

By the Committee for the Faculty.

W. C. Borden, M. D.,
Dean, Medical School.

$250 In Prizes for the Prize Cap

For the best sentence of ten words or less on the value of the Williams Hinge-Cap, we offer the following prizes: 1st prize, $100; 2nd prize, $50; two 3rd prizes, $25 each; two 4th prizes, $10 each; six 5th prizes, $5 each. Any undergraduate or graduate student is eligible. If two or more persons submit identical slogans deemed worthy of prizes, the full amount of the prize will be awarded to each. Contest closes at midnight March 14, 1924. Winners will be announced as soon thereafter as possible. Submit any number of slogans but write on one side of paper only, putting name, address, college and class at top of each sheet. Address letters to Contest Editor, The J. B. Williams Co., Glastonbury, Conn.

Williams is as much better to shave with as the Hinge-Cap is better than other caps: The lather is heavier and holds the moisture in against your beard. Quicker softening results. Also, Williams lather lubricates the skin. There is noticeable absence of irritating razor friction. And Williams takes good care of the skin. Though you shave daily, your face remains smooth and feels comfortable. Williams is a pure, natural-white cream absolutely without coloring matter. Try it!

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN ORGANIZES WORKERS

Women's Organization Completed for Active Campaigning in February

OWEN DIRECTS ACTIVITY

Graduates and Former Students Receive Booklets—Much Widespread Publicity in Newspapers

Progress in the national campaign for the University building and endowment fund during the past week has been marked by completion of the women's organization for the campaign in the city of Washington. This work has been in charge of Mrs. John Paul Barnes, vice chairman of the woman's division. Mrs. James Carroll Frazer, chairman of the woman's division, in directing the special girls for the women. Twenty-one team captains have been enlisted by the women, and each will select ten workers for active campaigning during the month of February.

The campaign in the city of Washington will be under the direction of Claude W. Owens, '08, who is selecting divisional chairmen and team captains. Special girls work is in charge of Elliott H. Goodwin, resident vice president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Samuel Herrick, '02, is in charge of the speakers who are appearing before civic organizations to present the needs of the University. Those who are volunteering as speakers are Gilbert H. Hall, Ezra Gould, Dr. Abram Simon, John Paul Barnes, I. C. Foster, C. C. Calhoun, William B. King, Clarence M. Updegraff, Louis N. Denit, William C. Van Vleet, Col. Walter C. Clephane, Judge J. Wilmer Latimer, Edward Stafford, T. C. Lavery, Judge E. L. Siddons, Harry C. Davis, Rev. David R. Covey, David A. Baer, Charles S. Baker, Percival Hall, Stephen E. Kramer, P. E. Barnard, Levi Cooke, Joan M. Bethune, Joseph W. Cox, Mrs. James Carroll Frazer, Everett Haycroft, Mrs. W. H. Herron.

Among the divisional chairmen who are active in the campaign are the following: New England division, Walter B. Grant, Boston; New York division, H. Stewart McKnight, New York City; Southeastern division, S. N. Haws, Baltimore district, Judge Harvey C. Bickel; Cleveland, Wm. S. Fitzgerald, former mayor.

A booklet of facts about the University and the campaign has been mailed to each graduate and former student. Last week a 20-page booklet about the achievements of the men and women of the University was sent out, and this week a 24-page 8 x 12 publication with over seventy illustrations will be sent to each. In addition, each alumnus will receive five bulletins about the plan of the campaign at intervals before the opening of the campaign in February. The project of George Washington University to raise a building and endowment fund of one million dollars is also earning widespread publicity for the University through the newspapers.

TALK ON ARCHITECTURE GIVEN AT COSMOS CLUB

Albert Kelsey Opens Series of Nine George Washington Lectures January 18

"Adventures in Architecture," by Albert Kelsey, F. A. I. A., the first of a series of nine free public lectures to be given by George Washington University during the next four months, was delivered Friday night, January 18. The remaining lectures will be given at the Cosmos Club Auditorium, Madison Place and H Street N. W.

Mr. Kelsey, who gave the lecture, is one of the most eminent architects in Philadelphia, and is the winner of the $25,000 prize given for the best plan for the Pan American Building. However, his achievements are not limited to this. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, having had a scholarship therein 1897. He has been several times chairman of commissions making model city plans and plans for the building of a great number of parks and buildings. In addition to this he has been one of the most successful architects of the East. He is well known both as a builder and a designer.

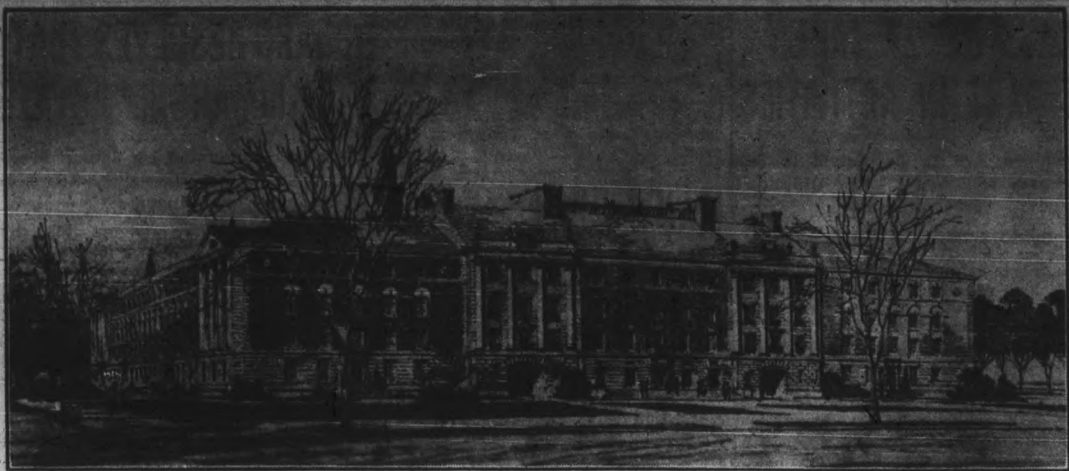

The lecture was well attended. Slides were used by Mr. Kelsey for illustration and color.

Tickets may be obtained for the asking at the registrar's office, or by writing to the lecture course committee, 2023 G Street. There are still a few on hand although the supply is very limited. Each ticket will admit one to all the numbers of the course.

This lecture course is part of the plan of President Lewis to increase the interest in George Washington University both among the students and among the citizens of Washington.

DEAN RUDIGER SPEAKS

Dean William C. Rudiger, of the Teachers' College, recently spoke at Clarendon to the Virginia teachers.

THE NEW BUILDING TO BE BUILT FOR THE UNIVERSITY BY THE BUILDING AND ENDOWMENT FUND

FACULTY NOTES

Robert F. Griggs, Professor of Botany, has just been appointed associate editor of the Journal of the Washington Academy of Sciences.

Henry Gratian Doyle, Professor of Romance Languages, who has been associate editor of Hispania, has been placed in charge of the pedagogical bibliography of that journal, formerly conducted by Professor W. S. Hendrix, of Ohio State University. Professor Doyle remains as associate editor.

NEW COURSE TO BE GIVEN

"Methods of Teaching English to Immigrants" is the subject of a new course to be given by the Teachers' College this semester, announced Dean W. C. Rudiger.

The course, which will cover the problems of grading, especially in relation to teaching of a language, will be given by Miss Lillian P. Clark, of the Bureau of Naturalization, Department of Labor.

The class will meet Wednesday and Friday at four o'clock.

DEAN BORDEN URGES ENDOWMENT SUPPORT

"Every Student and Graduate Should Be Deeply Interested in Our College," Says Medical School Dean

In the following statement to the Hatchet, Dean Borden, of the Medical School, has brought out very forcibly the many benefits to be derived from the success of the building and endowment fund drive. He has stressed the importance of the educational standing of the graduate as being vitally related to the facilities commanded by the University. "The larger the University endowment, the stronger and more efficient will its different departments be made and the more their prestige increased," he states. His complete statement follows:

Now that our University is shortly to engage in a campaign for an increase in its endowments, it seems proper that I, as Dean of the Medical School, should state how adequate University endowment will aid that department, which is engaged in preparing students for the practice of medicine.

No medical school can be adequately maintained by the fees derived from its students.

At the present time, the cost of conducting our Medical School is materially in excess of the amount received from student fees.

Our school has been continuously and is now maintained on "Class A" of the American Medical Association only by the strictest economy.

As it is an integral part of the University its further growth and its stability must depend upon the financial strength of the University.

The larger the University endowment, the stronger and more efficient will its different departments be made and the more their prestige increased.

Every student and graduate, not only of the Medical School but of the University, is—or should be—deeply concerned in the efficiency of the University and its financial and educational standing. Each student's instruction, as well as his or her standing in the educational and professional worlds will depend upon the standing of the university in which he or she is instructed and from which a degree is issued.

It is my desire that the students in the Medical School have a clear concept of the problems outlined above; and I would particularly urge that with these facts in mind, they do all in their power to place the University in which they are being prepared for the practice of medicine and surgery in a position to which they may always look with unqualified satisfaction and pride.

In this, the Capital of one of the greatest nations of the world, there is opportunity to build up a leading, if not THE leading University of our country. Certainly this is an end worthy of the highest endeavor.

AMERICAN TYPE USED IN BUILDING DESIGN

Architecture Combines Beauty of Colonial Days With Modern Arrangements

In designing the great quadrangle for the new George Washington University group, the architects, Albert L. Harris and Arthur B. Heaton, have taken the style of architecture used in the times of our first President, and earlier. This style may well be called the true American type. Mr. Heaton points out, although it was developed from the Georgian of England, and it never has, nor will lose its charm.

The first building, or unit No. 1, will be a part of a great quadrangle which will be about four hundred feet on one street and about three hundred and seventy on the other. This first unit is about one hundred and thirty-six feet front and the whole building will be four stories high.

It will be all of brick, similar to the buildings of Washington's time, such as Christ's Church, in Alexandria.

The great court will be of the same finish as street fronts and, in fact, will be more interesting than the outside. This will be used at times as an out-door auditorium. The rear of the auditorium itself will project into the court and will be designed after the old churches of Colonial days, with a tower and a belfry in which it is hoped that some one will place chimes or a carillon.

"It is the purpose of the architects to give these buildings the appearance of the buildings of old," Mr. Heaton said, "but from a viewpoint of the practical, expressing the modern ideas of higher education, and following the style which the Fine Arts Commission has been striving to induce our people to build in this great Capital of the Nation."

STUDENTS INVITED TO JOIN EUROPEAN PARTY

Dr. Brigham Will Conduct "College Travel Club" on European Tour—Needs Student Assistants

Several student assistants are needed for a "College Travel Club," visiting Europe immediately following the close of next term. All members of the University are invited to join the group, which will be conducted by Dr. Brigham, instructor in the History of Art and in English Rhetoric.

The party will sail from Montreal May 30th, visiting England, Holland, Belgium, and France. Special features will be lectures on the tour, motoring through the Thames Valley, visit to Stratford, boat trip on the Dutch Canals, quaint Bruges and Ghent, the battlefields of Chateau Thierry, Belleau Woods, and Rheims, Paris, Versailles, and many other excursions. The return will be from Havre or Cherbourg, arriving early in July in time for the summer school.

A certificate of membership will be given, which may be offered for college credit. Mr. J. Hugo Tatsch and Miss Iva M. Sinn are already registered as student assistants, and others are needed. Early registration is advisable. A circular may be had on application at Miss Brigham's office, 2015 G Street, basement.

DEBATERS MEET WITH COACHES

Debates, order of speakers, and tentative plans of attack were arranged and drawn up at the meeting of the Varsity debating team with the coaches, C. S. Collier and C. M. Updegraff, at the Law School, January 14.

The affirmative team will debate the University of Pittsburgh, at Pittsburgh, and the negative side will contest with Swathmore here on or about March 15. Frank Smith, Henry Temin, and Karl G. Pearson will deliver their speeches, in the order named, for the affirmative of, "Resolved, That the Courts Should Be Deprived of the Final Power to Declare Federal Statutes Unconstitutional," while Francis C. Dart, J. Levinson, and Oscar Zabel will constitute the order of negative speakers.

HISTORY PAPERS READ

Papers on medieval and modern history were read at the meeting of the C. C. Swisher Historical Society, January 15. Miss M. F. Clifford chose "Eleanor of Aquitaine" as her subject, while Miss Margaret Weibert and Mr. J. B. Potts spoke on "The Statesmanship of King Alfred" and "Charles XII," respectively.

The nomination committee will present a list of names to be voted on for officers of the society at the next meeting, February 21.

CLASS OF '27 TAKES
PART IN ACTIVITIESFreshmen Are to Be Found in All Phases of Student Life, Athletic or Intellectual

By SHERMAN E. JOHNSON

In the last four months the class of 1927 has become almost thoroughly initiated into the work of student activities in George Washington University. Freshman students may be found taking part in really all the activities on the campus which are open to them.

There are approximately nine hundred Columbian College Freshmen, six hundred of whom may be found in the night section of the English class, which is the largest university class in the world, and about three hundred in the morning section of the class, which is also among the classes having the largest enrollment of the world.

Obviously, many of the night students are unable to take part to a great extent in student activities, owing to the fact that they are employed in the daytime, but in spite of this some of the students who are most active in the field of student government are among those who attend night classes.

Perhaps one hundred of the Columbian College Freshmen are active in this work. Of those taking part in major activities, a great number are on the football and track teams, as well as other athletics.

Ten Freshmen are on the staff of the University Hatchet, including one special editor, two editorial assistants, and seven reporters.

Freshmen taking pre-medical and engineering courses are active in the scientific societies, such as the Engineering and Chemical societies.

Karl G. Pearson, a Freshman, who won the Firestone scholarship last year, is on the debating team this year, active in the Columbian debating society, an editorial writer of the Hatchet, and also a member of the Enosian Society, which numbers two Freshmen among its members.

A number of Freshmen are on the rolls of the Free Lance Club and similar organizations.

Many Freshmen are taking part in basketball, and several played in the University tennis tournament this fall. Many are seen on the campus in golf breeches, and while it does not necessarily mean that they take part in this manly sport, it seems to indicate leanings in that direction.

Freshman girls are making fine records in fencing, swimming, hockey, basketball, skating, and other sports.

During the fall the Freshman Orchestra, composed of six pieces and led by William S. Callahan, played many engagements at University functions, including the smoker at the University Club, November 4, in honor of President William Mather Lewis, and the reception to him at the Lafayette Hotel, November 5. The Freshman Orchestra played these engagements by special request of President Lewis.

Most of the members of the Freshman Orchestra are now participating in the University Orchestra, which will make its first appearance soon.

One Freshman is a full member of the Men's Glee Club, which recently broadcast selections, and others have memberships of other degrees. Freshmen are also taking part in the University Chorus, which will in a few weeks present for the first time some music especially written for it.

Among the signers of the student activities pledge, many of the class of '27 may be numbered, although the number of pledges is not as large as it should be.

The Freshman Class was a prominent feature in the Roll Call, held at the Monument Grounds this fall, as it made perhaps the most noise, and shake-danced and paraded all over Pennsylvania Avenue.

On the night of the Freshman elections, Sophomores stood without the door of the Chapel, waiting for the officers to be elected. On the election of William Howard Olson, Jr., he was helped from one window to another, and made his escape through Building 5, and it was several days before the Sophomores caught him. Olson has since been very active in student affairs, having arranged for the annual tug of war in spite of many difficulties.

In the endowment campaign, the Freshman Class promises to take an active part, several teams being made up entirely of Freshmen.

Two Freshman mixers were held this year in Limer Hall, and they were eminently successful in the promotion of class and school spirit. The first was held shortly before the class election and the second shortly before the inauguration of President Lewis. The Freshman Orchestra played at the second one.

In spite of the fact that the scheduled cane rush between Freshmen and Sophomores was called off on account of rain, and the tug of war proved to be a fiasco, the latter did much for the promotion of class spirit.

At the first of the year, the Sophomore regulations promulgated against Freshmen caused the latter to wear caps and stirred them to several expressions of class feeling, but the regulations were not enforced after several weeks had elapsed. However, the spirit manifested at that time showed that neither Sophomores nor Freshmen were dead.

Class officers this year are: William H. Olson, president; Virginia Fryor, vice president; W. Jeffries Chewning, secretary; and J. B. Tennyson, treasurer.

MANY NOVEL WAYS TO MAKE PLEDGES GOODOther University Students Employ
Striking Methods for Paying Endowment Fund Pledges

In taking an active part in raising the building and endowment fund, the students of George Washington University are following a precedent well established during recent years at other colleges. Last year the undergraduates of Middlebury College, with an enrollment of 538, gave $91,000, or an average of $170; the girls of Lake Erie College, with an enrollment of 164, gave $25,000, or an average of $152; the students of Adelphi College, in Brooklyn, another girls' school, with an enrollment of 365, subscribed $50,000, an average of $137 for each. These are but a few of the many recent campaigns that might be mentioned. Invariably, when the students, who are always closest to the needs and merits of their college, show their faithfulness with generous pledges, the campaign as a whole is successful.

Novel ways of raising the amount of their pledges have been adopted by students and alumnae of other institutions. A Lake Erie girl raised her $295 by selling flowers from her garden. Another made fancy scarfs, that all of her friends admired—and bought.

A Wells alumna started a private circulating library among her friends, ending books at 25 cents a week. It took only a few months to raise her $333. A girl who made "the best judge ever tasted" discovered she was equally clever in making money for her college, when she found that the cigar stand at a local hotel would sell all the fudge she could manufacture.

An Oberlin alumna put an ad in the paper, offering to read to convalescents or invalids. She got enough business at 50 cents an hour to pay her pledge. A clever Wellesley girl designed book-plates, selling her regular designs for 45 cents a dozen, and drawing individual designs to order for $13.50. A student at Goucher made her share by teaching children of the neighbors how to swim, at 50 cents an hour.

There are lots of ways of doing it, and the only prerequisite is the will to do something for Alma Mater.

That the George Washington students have the spirit seems to be assured by the fact that the first twelve pledges made by students averaged $100 apiece.

GATE AND KEY INITIATES
TEN STUDENT LEADERSActivity Leaders Admitted to Honor ary Society at Exercises

Ten students, representing the leaders in the different activities of the University, were admitted to the Gate and Key Undergraduate Honor Society at its annual initiation exercises held at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon House last Tuesday, the 14th.

The purpose of the organization is to encourage participation in collegiate affairs and honor the undergraduate students who are active in the student life at the University and have shown adaptability along certain lines.

Those initiated were: Earl Chesney, James C. Davis, Jack Reynolds, Douglas Beatie, Raymond Fletcher, Reds Wallace, R. C. Sibbert, William Thomas, John Nichols, and Leslie Young.

The next meeting of the society will be held at the Theta Delta Chi House, Tuesday, February 5, where the subject of a constructive program for the organization to follow in the promotion of activities at George Washington University, will be discussed.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Virginia Cotter, of the Phi Sigma sorority, to Norris H. Sanborn, graduate of George Washington University, now employed as a chemist by the National Canners' Association.

NEW HOME ECONOMICS COURSE

A new course in Home Economics will start January 28, under Miss Emeline S. Whicomb, specialist on Home Economics, U. S. Bureau of Education. The course in Economics of the Home and will be given at 726 Twentieth Street. The classes will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays, at 5.10. This course follows the course in Nutrition, which was given by Miss Lowe last semester.

Some of the topics to be covered in the new course are: The purpose of the home; scientific management of the home; standards of living; budgets; cost of living; and income.

BOARD RESOLVES THAT CHAIRMANSHIP ROTATEResolution Adopted by Junior Presidents is Also Passed by Board of Managers

Rotation of the officers for the Junior Week activities as requested by the resolution adopted by the members of the Junior Law Class was adopted by the Board of Managers, January 18.

The plan as adopted by the Board of Managers is to begin in 1925 and the rotation is to be left to the discretion of the board and transmitted to the present Junior Class presidents for future use. The method of rotation was left to the committee composed of Dean William C. Van Vleck, Miss Joshua Evans, and Hillary Tolson.

Under the policy as outlined by the resolution of the board it is expected that the chairmanship of the Junior Prom, which is considered the biggest social event of the University year, will rotate from one college to the other. It will not be possible for one college to retain the chairmanship two years in succession. Supervision and the carrying out of this policy in the future will be in the hands of the committee of the Board of Managers of Student Activities.

It is felt by members of the board that this policy will bring harmony between the different Junior Classes in the various colleges, and will insure for the future the same high standards for the Junior Prom.

HOLDS GEORGETOWN TO 4 POINT MARGIN

Team Makes Great Fight in Basketball Contest—Unusual Strategy Used—Score, 21-17

George Washington University basketballers made a great come-back Saturday night, January 19, at the Coliseum. The game started with Georgetown picked to win by at least a 20-point margin, but George Washington made them work their hardest to win by even 4 points.

Coach Johnny Dalley surprised everyone by starting the game with the second string men, with the exception of Brown, the Varsity center. Georgetown immediately started the five-man defense, whereupon George Washington retired to the other end of the court and had a merry time among themselves until Georgetown got tired and tried to break it up. George Washington then started a running game and then Coach Dalley sent in the regulars. When the fresh varsity started Georgetown was ready to rest.

Brown started the scoring by a goal from the floor. Klopsch, Woerner, Brown, Dowd, and Reynolds were playing good ball when the half ended, 10 to 5, in Georgetown's favor.

Klopsch started the second half by a foul shot and then the fight was on in earnest. Georgetown taking long shots and George Washington working in under the baskets for most of hers. Dowd and Reynolds played steady ball at guards. In the last half Nichols, a newcomer, played well at center and with more practice promises to become a contender for a regular berth. Davis, a new man, also played well at forward. Capt. Klopsch led the scoring with 8 points and Woerner was not far behind him.

O'Keefe, Carney, and Brogan were starts for Georgetown. Georgetown did some fine passing and made spectacular shots all through the game.

This game was the best one that G. W. has played so far and all who were not there missed a real treat. Every man who played did well, and all deserve praise, but the student body was lacking. The pep squad was there, and under its leadership the G. W. section did good cheering. The result of the game goes to show how much cheering will help a team to win and to fight.

"Pep" Balter, cheer leader, sends out a call to every student in the University to join the pep squad and to come to the games and help the team to win. The squad needs you, and so does the team.

PEP BALTER TO CHARM DOLLARS WITH VIOLIN

"Music hath charms," even for dollars, so Ben Balter, Sophomore, thinks. Next summer he is going to collect no less than $300.00 for the Endowment Fund by playing his violin on the street corners of the cities between Washington and his home.

His plan is to walk all the way, stopping in Philadelphia, Atlantic City, New York, Albany, Buffalo, and Pittsburgh, long enough to play a few strains on the busiest corners and tell the throngs why he's doing it. He is confident that he will collect well over $300.00 for his share of the Endowment Fund.

Incidentally, Ben Balter, or better known as "Pep" Balter, is the University's rousing cheer leader. His enthusiasm for student activities is a great influence on the supporters of athletics.

These matches were participated in by shooters all over the country, shooting on their home ranges, their shooting as evidenced by their targets being attested by witnesses.

The team will shoot a telegraphic match with West Virginia University during this week, ending February 2d. It will be shot in four positions; five highest scores to count.

BASKETBALL LEADERS SCORE GYM FACILITIES

Dog Show Forces Team to Borrow Other Gymnasium for Practice

Practice for the basketball team was suspended this past week because a dog show was being held in the Coliseum, where the Buff and Blue floor-men are forced to practice because the University lacks a gym.

"The fact that a dog show forces the team of a university the size of George Washington to suspend practice is little short of ludicrous if it wasn't such a serious matter to the team," stated John R. Dalley, coach of the team.

"No wonder consistent winning teams can not be developed here when trivial things forces the team to suspend practice. Even a collection of all-stars without practice can not win games," is the way Otto Klopsch, acting captain, expressed his viewpoint of the situation.

"I was forced into the embarrassing position of begging others here in Washington to allow us to use their gym during the time we were unable to practice in the Coliseum. Athletics will not be a complete success here until we have a gym where we can play and practice the different sports. We should be in the position of lending our gym to others, rather than trying to borrow," feelingly stated Lester Johnson, manager of the Hatchette basketball team.

ATHLETIC MANAGERS APPROVED BY BOARD

Tentative Track Schedule Also Meets With Board's Approval—Seven Meets Listed

Approval of the track schedule was made at the last Board of Managers meeting. The tentative schedule is as follows:

February 21—Georgetown University, indoor track meet.

February 23—Johns Hopkins, indoor track meet.

April 19—Dual meet with St. John's College, at Annapolis.

April 25-26—Relay Carnival, University of Pennsylvania.

May 3—University of Maryland, intercollegiate meet, College Park, Md.

May 10—South Atlantic intercollegiate track meet, Richmond, Va.

May 17—Dual meet, University of Delaware, Newark, Del.

A dual meet with Gallaudet is being arranged but as yet the date has not been definitely set.

The inter-class field and track meet which is to be held under the auspices of the G. W. Club, April, 12, was approved by the board.

The following managers of student activities, upon recommendation of the Student Council, were approved: Manager of track, John Reynolds; Manager of men's basketball, Lester Johnson; Manager of men's tennis, Harold Young; assistant manager of track, Gilbert Ludwig; assistant managers of basketball, W. W. Woodward and W. B. Campbell; assistant manager of women's tennis, Helen Loehring.

The appointment of F. J. Brunner as coach of women's swimming was approved.

was established with the purpose in view of only holding those senior students who have been instrumental in the different activities of the University. Membership is limited to ten active members who are in their senior year. The Pyramid has been instrumental in soliciting signers to the activity tax and in formulating plans and offering suggestions to better the conditions and promote activities at George Washington.

Winners of the two cups will be decided by a committee composed of members of the faculty and members of the Student Endowment Campaign Committee.

MANAGERS APPROVE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Attractive Schedule of Ten Games Arranged—Buffalo University Slated for Contest

Five games will be played in Washington next year by the Hatchette gridiron men, according to the schedule announced by the Director of Student Activities recently. A total of ten games will be played next fall.

The season will be opened with the contest with Georgetown University on September 27, the Saturday after the opening of the University. On October 4, Juniata College, which was beaten 14-7 this past fall, will play here. Western Maryland, of Westminster, Md., will furnish the attraction on the afternoon of Saturday, October 11. The "Green Terrors" have obtained quite a reputation for themselves in athletic lines.

Philadelphia will be the scene of the contest on the afternoon of October 18, when the Hatchettes meet the Drexel Institute team. The following Saturday, St. Joseph's, of the Quaker town, will journey here for the gridiron setto.

One of the big tests of the season will be the Johns Hopkins game at Baltimore, November 1. Penn Military College, of Chester, Pa., will be the host of the Buff and Blue on November 8. Delaware University will be the opponent on November 15. As yet it has not been definitely arranged whether the game will be played in Washington or Newark.

Buffalo University, a member of the Urban University League, and a newcomer in athletic relations of George Washington, will be met in Buffalo on November 22.

Turkey Day will see the annual conflict between the traditional rival, Catholic University. This game on Thanksgiving Day, November 27, completes a well-made and well-balanced schedule. It gives at least five home games to the University fans, and in the main the teams are of the same caliber as the Hatchettes, although the contests with Georgetown, Western Maryland, and John Hopkins University will furnish plenty of high-class opposition.

William Howard Gray is the manager of the 1924 football team. As yet the captain for next year's squad has not been elected. Nothing definite could be learned in regard to the plans for coaching of the Hatchettes next year.

The football schedule follows:

September 27—Georgetown University, Washington, D. C.

October 4—Juniata College, Washington, D. C.

October 11—Western Maryland College, Washington, D. C.

October 18—Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, Pa.

October 25—St. Joseph's College, Washington, D. C.

November 1—Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md.

November 8—Penn Military College, Chester, Pa.

November 15—Delaware College (Washington or Newark, Del.).

November 22—Buffalo University, Buffalo, N. Y.

November 27—Catholic University, Washington, D. C.

CO-EDS SCORE VICTORY IN GALLAUDET GAME

Tune of 29 to 11 Shows Quick Pass Work, Good Guarding, Excellent Form

Co-ed Hatchettes once again bring home the bacon—this time with a score of 29-11, the little end belonging to Gallaudet. The score, however, does not tell the whole truth about the snappy contest staged at Gallaudet, January 19, for Gallaudet played its usual fast game and gave the G. W. girls a good run for their money.

The Hatchettes' good training showed up in their quick pass work and excellent form. Bee Woodford's active guarding kept the lid down on any formidable scoring on the part of the opponents. With a few exceptions Grace Young had a monopoly on the tip-offs from center and Alys Ewers starred, rolling up a total of 21 points. Her clever losing of her guard through use of the pivot and one-arm shot was spectacular.

DEPARTMENTAL BASEBALL LEAGUE TO BE FORMED

Double-Headers Will Be Played Saturday Afternoons—Winner to Be Rewarded

Baseball will again take its part on the stage of University athletics, as it has been decided to have an inter-departmental league this spring. It is hoped by the sponsors of the league that teams will be formed in Columbian College, Engineering, Law, and Medical Schools.

However, there is some doubt as to the feasibility of organizing a team in the Medical School. If this can not be done, two teams will probably be organized in Columbian College.

According to present plans double-headers will be played every Saturday afternoon. This will enable each team to get action every week. Because of the shortness of the afternoon it will probably be necessary to limit the games to six innings.

Bryan Morse, the director of student activities, has promised that the winning team will be rewarded in some manner. Perhaps eats, the thing closest to an athlete's heart, will be the trophy.

If this inter-departmental league is a success it is predicted that base ball as an intercollegiate sport will again appear at George Washington University.

GENERAL WASHINGTON MEETS PARSON RICE

Talk Over Old Times From Olympian Heights—Marvel at Wonderful Progress.

If all those early Americans who have in some way been associated with George Washington University are now gazing down from their Olympian seclusion upon the scurrying body of 10,000 students and alumni of our Alma Mater who are bent upon raising the million-dollar building and endowment fund, certainly the most interested must be none other than General George Washington and one unknown to him in life—the Reverend Luther Rice.

One can almost picture them drawn together in conversation by mutual interest.

"Well, Luther," Washington would be saying, "I talked and dreamt of starting that University, and I even left money for the purpose, but it took an old fellow like you actually to start the work."

Then Luther Rice: "Those were hard days, traveling all through the Atlantic Coast States and even into Ohio with my old horse and sulky—blessings on that old horse, Caesar—collecting fifty cents here, two dollars there, until I had $7,000 in hand to buy the lots. I'll tell you, General, there were many times when I almost gave up, but when I thought of what you said to Congress about the need for a university at Washington, I decided to go on."

John Quincy Adams Speaks.

"Well, well, well, if it isn't my old friend Rice," a new voice would break in. "Good morning, General," putting his hand on Washington's shoulder, and continuing musingly, just as the strains of cheering from the student mass meeting reaches the ears of the trio, "I say, Parson, the University would have been in a hard way if I hadn't come through with that loan of $20,000." (John Quincy Adams speaking, of course.) "Mighty glad I did it, too. I often think of the first commencement exercises. Let me see, that was on December 15, 1824. I was Secretary of War then. I remember walking over to the building with John Calhoun and Henry Clay. General LaFayette was there as the guest of honor. Those were the good old days."

Present Days Are Good Days, Too.

Those were good old days. The name of the University has been intertwined with the names of many of the greatest men in the history of the country. It has graduated distinguished men and women who are now living in all sections of the United States. The University to-day, however, is affording an education to a larger group of students than it ever before took care of, its educational standards are higher than they ever were before, and its prospects for the future brilliant.

BUFF AND BLUE BUTTONS TO BE WORN BY SIGNERS

In evidence of a pledge to the endowment campaign, each student signing a pledge will be presented with a lapel button. This button is blue with buff "G. W. U." on it, and makes a very attractive design.

All team workers will be supplied with them, and as soon as a pledge is signed, the signer will get his button. The girls are to wear their buttons on their dresses, but where it can be seen readily by the campaign workers. Henry James, chairman of the executive committee, said: "We want to see every student in the University with this button of loyalty on him. Every one should have the greatest pride in wearing it, not for the beauty of the thing as a work of art, but for the spirit and the sentiment for which it stands."

ORGANIZATIONS, NOTICE

All organizations that intend competing for the cups offered in the Endowment Campaign Contest, must send a list of their active members to G. Wilfrid Pryor, Hatchet Office, before Thursday, January 31, 1924.

SENATOR GEORGE WILL ADDRESS LAW BANQUET

Annual Law School Banquet to be Held in New Ebbitt, Crystal Room.

An important social function of the week will be the annual Law School banquet at the New Ebbitt Hotel, on Saturday, February 2nd, at 7.15 p. m.

This banquet promises to be one of the most interesting and the best banquets the Law School has ever held. The members of the committee in charge of the banquet have been most painstaking in formulating their plans. They have seen to it that nothing will be lacking to provide a fine evening for all who attend. Tickets for the banquet have been put on sale at the most reasonable price of $2.50, and the committee have every reason to expect a large attendance, by the way they have been selling. The tickets may be secured from any member of the Law School Senate, and also from the office of the Law School.

The committee has engaged an orchestra to furnish music during the banquet, and there will also be singing. Students attending the banquet will be fortunate in being able to hear Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, who will be the main speaker of the evening. President William Mather Lewis will also be there, and will make an address. Of course, the banquet would not be complete without speeches by the presidents of the respective classes at the Law School. It has been a custom for each of them to make a short talk at the banquet. The presidents of the classes who will speak are: Hugo Kemmann, Senior Class; Leighton C. Taylor, Junior Class; and Earl Manson, Freshman Class.

Last year there was some little delay in getting the banquet started, as it was held at the Cairo Hotel, and a large party of tourists interfered with starting promptly. However, this year it has been assured that there will be no delay in getting the banquet under way, and it will commence promptly at 7.15 in the Crystal Room of the New Ebbitt Hotel, Fourteenth and F Streets.

It might be advisable to secure tickets to the banquet as early as possible, so as to be assured of not getting "left out," for the sale of tickets has been heavy during the past ten days.

DR. MORLEY WILL SPEAK

FOOTBALL HOP PLANS CANCELED BY COUNCIL

Chairman McPherson May Recommend Holding Carnival to Honor Men of Two Athletic Teams.

Again the Football Hop has been called off. However, it is rumored that the social committee of the Student Council headed by Richard K. McPherson will recommend that an athletic hop be held either March 7th, or 14th, in order to honor the football and basketball men.

The second attempt at holding a hop for the gridiron men was voted at the Student Council meeting of January 14th, the date being set for Friday, February 1st. The Junior Prom committee pointed out to the Student Council social committee that a dance so close to February 19th, the date set for the Prom, would jeopardize the high standard of this annual social function. For this reason, Chairman McPherson decided it would be best to cancel arrangements.

"It is my present intention to recommend to the Council that an Athletic Carnival or Hop be held in the early part of March, probably the 7th or 14th, in order that we might honor the football and basketball men. If we do decide to have a hop then, there won't be any postponing or canceling of arrangements and it will be a bang-up affair," stated McPherson, the chairman of the social committee.

GIRLS' SWIMMING TEAM SECURES USE OF POOL

Y. W. C. A. Pool to be Used by Girl Aquatic Stars.

Swimming for the girls of the University is an assured fact. The Y. W. C. A. Pool at 614 E Street N. W., has been obtained for the use of all who have paid the Student Activity Tax. Beginning January 30, the pool will be open every Wednesday from 7.40 p. m. to 8.20 p. m., and every Thursday from 4 p. m. to 4.40 p. m. There will be a charge of five cents for suit and towel at each dip.

The swimming team will practice on Tuesdays, beginning February 5, from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. Fred J. Brunner of the Central High School, will be the coach. Try-outs for the team will be welcomed.

Girl tax signers who do not swim are urged to take advantage of the instruction offered at each opening of the pool, and those who already swim are urged to enjoy this privilege.

Any further information concerning this activity will be gladly given at the office of the Dean of Women.

SENIORS, NOTICE!

JUNIOR WEEK PLANS NEARING COMPLETION

Prom Favors Changed—Committee Keeps New Favors Secret—Promises They Will Delight.

Favors for the Junior Prom have been changed. The favor committee refused to tell what the new selection was, but stated that they had found something far more desirable than what had been previously selected and would rather let this important factor remain in the dark.

The cost of the Prom has been set at $7.00 per couple, and the Juniors say that it will surpass anything that has ever been held at George Washington. It will be held in the Willard Ballroom, on Tuesday, February 19. The hall will be very attractively decorated by the Willard, in addition to the decorations that the fraternities will make.

For the Junior Play, the combined Junior classes will present the Mimes in four one-act plays. The plays have been especially chosen for the occasion, and the splendid talent available in the Mimes organization will insure their complete success.

Instead of the usual rotating tea that all fraternities have on Sunday of the Week, all fraternities will hold open house.

The Juniors this year seem determined that they will set a precedent for all Junior classes to follow in their week as host to the University. Every effort is being made to insure the success of all the Week functions.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU FOR G. W. STUDENTS

President Lewis and Director of Activities at Work on Scheme.

George Washington University plans to have an employment bureau in the near future. President William M. Lewis has already begun the preliminary work with the director of student activities and the registrar's office.

An article appeared in a Washington newspaper declaring that college men in Washington were applying for employment. The story stated that unless they received employment they would be forced to suspend their education.

Several positions were obtained through the Federal Employment Agency. In addition President Lewis received letters from the National Specialty Sales Co., A. K. Towner, general sales manager, and the American Automobile Association, through Alexander G. Cruickshank, division manager.

Students interested in working their way through the University may apply to these establishments.
